IRISH ATROCITIES

American Non Partisan Commission to Sift Charges Made Against One Another by Brittain and Sinn Fein

New York, Sept. 15.—Oswald Garrison Billard announced to-night that one hundred representative Americans had accepted the invitation of his marriage, the action to constitute a non-partisan commission to sift charges of atrocities in Ireland made against one another by the British government and Sinn Fein. The announcement says the committee of one hundred, as it will be known, has been formed to constitute a non-partisan com-
announcement says the committee of one
British government and Sinn Fein.

The program of the committee is not developed but its sponsors suggest at the British government, Sinn Fein, at others be asked to present such evidence of violence or wrong doing as they possess. The committee, it is said, will designate from its own members, or outside, a small commission to hear testimony and make a report. The committee plans to hold its sessions in Washington early in October. The announcement says:
"It is understood that President Delella is ready to appear before such a committee and that Mrs. Mackenzie, wife of an imprisoned mayor of Cork, will cross a ocean for the same purpose. The English point of view will be presented fully. The project does not compromise any recommendations for resolution of political relations between Great Britain and Ireland." Mr. Villard's statement says that a representative Americans on the committee on One Hundred include United States senators, representatives, Congress, mayors, judges and leaders in professional, business and labor circles. A partial list of acceptances is made public, including Senators Ashurst Arizona, Spencer of Missouri, and Clark of Missouri. The list also includes representatives in Congress names the mayors of Newark, N. J., Jersey City, N. J., Cleveland, Miss.; Iwakawa, St. Joseph, Mo.; Cambridge, Mass.; Toledo and Omaha. Among others are: Charles H. Anderson, judge of the United States District Court of North Dakota; William Allen White of Emporia, Kans.; A. P.
Pere of Pittsburg; William Randolph Barnes, judge of the United States District Court of Washington; John Scott Baker of Washington; Charles F. Johnson of New York; and Irving Fisher of Yale University. well as a number of others having various connections; Maurice F.
Carmichael, former minister to Denmark; John R. Lovejoy, secretary of the National Child Labor committee; and Field Malone of New York.

CHARGE BOOZE SELLING

Accuse Fruit of Albion Furnishes Bail for Appearance at Trial

Albion, Sept. 15.—G. F. Lackey, out United States marshal, has returned from Albion where he arrested the fruit of that town on the charge of illegal selling of intoxicating liquors.
Lackey was taken before Commissioner C.
Watson on the charge, furnishing bail for appearance in court later. Deputy Lackey has been to the farm six times to see the man, but on each other time he has found him away from home, not with the intent of evasion, it is thought, in the usual run of his work.

REPORT FEW MISHAPS

Accidents Not Numerous—One Motorist Ran Over Dog

Albion, Sept. 15.—Only a few automobile accidents were reported to the state of State to-day. These included W. Houghton of Marshfield, reporting he ran over a dog; A. P. Timmerman reporting that he was about to run over another automobile when the car turned towards the middle of the road, forcing him against a guard rail and doing some damage to his machine; while H. Pervier, operating one of Gross these machines in Northfield also had an accident.

lish in the high school—Mrs. Eva Pond of Bridport is in town to visit her sister, Mrs. Leslie Dayton.

The primary election was a quiet affair in Middlebury, but a large vote was cast principally for the reason, while a good many did not care, or seem to care, much about who should be the candidate for governor, a good many others did care about who should be the State's attorney, Addison county and whether Judge Button or Attorney Russell should represent Middlebury in the Legislature. The result was that an unusually large proportion of the 78 men and 42 women whose names were on the check list managed to get in their ballots during the day. There was a good bunch of voters on hand when the polls opened at noon and others from the village and outside the village continued to stream in until the closing time at night. The day was fair most of the time, although rain threatened at times and as it was very wet around in the country, the farmers had nothing to do but their chores so they flocked into the voting place in large numbers. There was a school of instruction in voting for the new women voters in the lower room of the town hall, but not many of them seemed to feel the need of further instructions as how to vote and the school was not very largely attended—Dr. William H. Kinsley, who has been spending a few weeks with his sister in Randolph, has returned home—News was received Tuesday of the death in Framingham, Mass.,
of Edward C. Rogers, a long-time resident of Cornwall, and for many years a resident of this village. Mr. Rogers was a native of Cornwall and emigrated from that town in Co. F. of the Fifth Vermont Volunteers of the Civil War and served for over four years. About three years ago he went to Framingham and had made his home there since. He was survived by two sons, Robert and William Rogers of Framingham, and by one brother, Isaac L. Rogers of Middlebury, and one sister, Mrs. Fairservice of Middlebury. The remains were brought to Middlebury Tuesday evening and the

and daughters, the Misses Alice and Ida Cutler, have returned to Middlebury after a six weeks' visit with relatives in Middlebury and vicinity—Robert C.
Floyd, who has been in town for several weeks, has returned from Clifton Springs, N. Y., where he has been for three weeks under medical treatment during which time he had his tonsils removed—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Eddy and Miss Florence Eddy have returned from Wallingford, where they went to visit their brother, Eugene L. Eddy, who is removing from that place to South Royalton—Frank Button of Brandon has joined the Middlebury college football squad at its training camp at Lake Dun-more—Charles and John Morris of Rutland and guests, Mr. and Mrs. James Morris of Chicago, have returned to Rutland after a brief visit here—Mr. and Mrs. Albert Briscoe of Norristown, Pa., are in town for a few weeks—Mrs. Ruth Walker has gone to Wallingford, where she will make a further visit before returning to her home in Lowell, Mass.

Most people in this vicinity seemed to be satisfied with the results of Tuesday's primary, although there were quite a number of dissatisfied ones as always.
In spite of the claims and predictions made by the workers for another candidate, Mr.
Hartness carried the town for governor by a plurality of 177 votes over the next highest candidate and he also carried Addison county by a comfortable plurality, a result which was scarcely looked for in advance of the voting. In this town 372 of the 422 women registered came out and cast their ballots, which was a larger proportion than that of the men voters.
It was a late hour at night when the ballots were all counted—The Misses Frances and Esther White have returned to Genesee, N. Y., after several weeks in town—The funeral of Edward C. Rogers, who died in Framingham, Mass., Monday, will be held at two o'clock this afternoon in the undertaking parlors of Arthur J.
Blackmer. It had been intended to hold the funeral services Wednesday, but the funeral party missed the train that day expected to come on and so the delay was necessary—Theron M. Crane returned Wednesday to Worcester, Mass., after three weeks here and in Bridport—Gustave Fleming and sister, Miss Nora

a number of dissatisfied ones as always.
by the workers for another candidate, Mr.
by a plurality of 177 votes over the next
highest candidate and he also carried Ad-
proportion than that of the men voters.
It was a late hour at night when the bal-
town—The funeral of Edward C. Rogers,
who died in Framingham, Mass., Monday,
in the undertaking parlors of Arthur J.
Blackmer. It had been intended to hold
tave Fleming and sister, Miss Nora Fleming of Baltimore, Md., are in town for two weeks—Miss Marjorie Bliss of Cornwall, recent graduate of Middlebury College, has been engaged to teach in the English department of the West Rutland high school the coming year—The Misses Elise and Helen Hamilton of Brookline, Mass., are in town for several weeks.
There will be a special business meeting of the Memorial Baptist Church in the church parlors this evening, followed by a business meeting of the Young People's society. A full attendance is desired at both meetings as matters of importance are to be brought up—Arrowanna Rebekah Lodge, No. 15, I. O. O. F., will celebrate the anniversary of its order Tuesday evening—Loren Shaw of Waterbury has returned from Rutland, where he has been spending a week—Mrs. Hattie Day, has returned from Racine, Wis., where she has spent a week—Monday, market day, eggs brought in cents and dairy products—Miss Clara Marshall has sold a house on Elm street to William LaPan and one on North street to Michael McNulla through the real estate agency of Frank J. Hubbard—Miss Stella Wooster has gone to Readboro, where she has taken a position to teach English in the high school—Mrs. Eva Pond

ter, Mrs. Leslie Dayton.

about who should be the State's attorney, Addison county and whether Judge But-
seemed to feel the need of further in-
a few weeks with his sister in Randolph,
has returned home—News was received Tues-
day of the death in Framingham, Mass.,
a native of Cornwall and emigrated from
ago he went to Framingham and had
brother, Isaac L. Rogers of Middlebury,
and one sister, Mrs. Fairservice of Mid-
burial was yesterday in the West cemtery—Mr. and Mrs. William C. Cutler
and daughters, the Misses Alice and Ida
Cutler, have returned to Middlebury
